Water Plant.

E. T. Butler has installed a plant for having water into any part of his house which is both cheap and effective for property on which a small flow of water to operate a ram cannot be obtained.

A tank is located and into this water and air is forced by means of a hand pump until the pressure, registered on a gauge, shows the tank to be full. The tank can be charged in half an hour and ought to supply a family for two days.

A Hustling Motor Boat.

The houseboat, Auroroir, left today with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smith and M. Gibbons aboard. The boat will proceed to Palm Beach and from there will make trips to Pelican Island, Miami and other points worth visiting.

This houseboat is twenty-four feet long and seven feet beam, yet she was towed by a fourteen foot launch at a rapid speed. The launch is a motor boat equipped with a one-horse power Auto Marine engine, which makes 850 revolutions per minute.

The Auroroir, formerly owned by Colonel Lee McCord, has been enlarged and made far more comfortable. She was provisioned today as though for a long cruise and the party aboard are out for a good time.

Appreciative and True.

The Travelunion speaking of Daytona in a recent issue says:

"Why this popular little resort city on the Halifax draws hundreds of visitors, for it is here where the green and the gay may find winter life to their liking. The river is teeming with fish for those wishing to play with the finny tribe; for others boat on nature study there on the hammocks near by, gideon crimsoned with the 'Jessamine all in bloom and glory; one has ample opportunity to explore the densest, deepest woods, carpeted with tall ferns, and this is what the Baron loves too. Oaks, dress with moss of time, and hundreds s from nature, both in oil and water colors, are marvelous and lifelike, and bits of art of the highest order."

City Schools Increase Rates.

The session of the Daytona City schools as distinguished from the county schools, begins, April first. The funds for maintaining this session are raised by the tax payers of Daytona. A careful estimate shows that the cost of teaching the pupils is much greater per capita than that which has heretofore been charged for the non resident children.

At a recent meeting of the Trustees it was voted to make the rates for the future to cover the cost. The rates voted from the estimates made are per month $2 for the primary department, $3 for the grammar and $4 for the high school. These rates represent the cost of each pupil to the tax payers.

Card Parties Last Night.

A pleasant euchre party was given last night in the parlors of The Beresford. The first prizes were won by Mrs. Woodbury and Mrs. Cornwall the first securing a Daytona souvenir spoon and the latter an alligator pearl screw. The four hand prize, a silver orange knife, was won by Mrs. Jones. Consolation prizes were awarded Mrs. M. C. Overturf and Mrs. Clarence Bennett. Refreshments were served at the completion of the game in the dining room.

A delicate and much appreciated compliment was paid by Mrs. J. F. Howard to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hagey, of Honeyetta, Pa., last night in whose honor a package euchre party was given. This pleasant couple have been guests of The Howard since early in December and expect to leave for home Monday.

Thirty-six ladies and gentlemen, guests of the hotel and their friends, entered for the handsome Florida souvenirs offered, the first selection of which was secured by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hendricks, the other participants drawing in order according to the scores made. Light refreshments were served at the completion of the game.

The north window of Atwood's Pharmacy, recently decorated, looks very pretty at night.

QUEER JAPAN.

A Land Where Laughter Has No Relation to Pleasure.

In "Mere Great Things About Japan" Douglas Sladen says: Perhaps one of the sickest of expletives in Japan is that of smiles. When you have acted in that kind of useless way you will learn in time that when you run understand a Japanese smile you may have to understand the people. A stranger in the hotel always present a smiling face to her mother-in-law, the servant, and smile when his mistress dismisses him. But the news of a death must be told with longsome. Laughter is reserved for very special occasions and has no relation to joy. Smiles are used on every occasion to conceal real feelings. They are not always successful of course.

"An Ainu is the Japanese" for some writer continues. "He can live in his clothes without a bath, he can live on rice or wild of the sea, and he is so accustomed to carrying heavy weights and running long distances that he can be his own commissariat and even his own horse."

The Japanese are somewhat lax as regards their religion, they owe at any rate allegiance in steadiness. The writer says: "Devout deaf mutes is a virtue which all Japanese servants possess. It is no unusual thing for a Japanese servant to apologize to a mistress for not having had time to bathe more than three times that day."

SERVANTS IN ENGLAND.

The Case of Meggins, Who Wished She Were Dead.

The heroes of exploits below stairs there once stayed into to enjoy a homestead whose inner hitherto had been confined to lodging houses. Up to stairs she always looked frightened, and her face had a great attraction for "Meggins," but she were very willing and very contented.

"It is not for me to ask indeata to send Meggins away, but the rest of us will see if Meggins stays. I don't know where she has lived out before, and she drinks out of her saucer and does not even know that we expect her to wipe it in my sitting room at half past 11 dressed in her black and ready to pass out the servants' hall. Of course I have Meggins under notice, meaning that the leaving letter was my proper option, and in the month that followed I knew she suffered martyrdom. She used to wipe her eyes stealthily, and as she was not proud I showed her some sympathy.

"They ain't nice to me downstairs like you are, ma'am," she sobbed, "though I'm doing my best. Cook says she won't wipe up the dishes for the likes of me."

"Never mind, Meggins. You'll be going soon, after all, you have been a good deal here," I consoled her.

"I wish," said Meggins, "I was dead." —Mrs. John Lane in Harper's Bazar.

The Benefits of Sugar.

A correspondent remarks that sugar has modified the history of Europe and of the world in more ways than one. Used in England four centuries ago almost exclusively in the preparation of medicines and long afterward an article of luxury only accessible to the rich, it has by enlarged production and cheapened manufacture been brought within the reach of all. The universal use of this practically pure carbohydrate, which is not only a freely burning fuel and protein sparer, but a muscle food, increasing the power of doing work and lessening fatigue, must have had widespread and beneficial effects on the national health. Especially is it the case of children, whose greed of sugar is the expression of a physiological want, but that food been valuable in conducing to growth, contentment and well being.—St. James Gazette.

Not Unexpected.

"O'Flaherty is dead. He was struck by lightning."

"It's not surprised at all. The instr telme Of saw him he was feelin mighty bad."

A Definition.

Little Clarence Pa, what is an optimist? Mr. Callipers. An optimist, my son, is a person who doesn't care what happens if it doesn't happen to him. Puck.

THE WILD BOAR.

Full of Courage and Cunning and Never Loses His Head.

The wild boar never loses his head or his heart. He is courage. He never or betrays in any hour found creature. He has as the cunning. Cunning and courage for the Satanic subtlety and in his rage is a demon that will charge anything at any size. I have seen a small boar work his way through a pack of dogs and his smaller brother, the peccary, in Brazil, send a man up a tree and keep him there.

The boar looks ungainly, but the lightning eye he is as fleet as a horse for about three-quarters of a mile. He begins with fight, shifts to cunning and finally stands to the last with ingoing cent courage, facing any odds. As, rising upon him, you are about to paint your spear, he will dart, "jink," as they call it in India to one side, repeating the performance several times, until he feels he cannot shake you, when, turning steadily, with ears cocked and eyes glittering, he will charge furiously. If you have not built a well aimed and firmly held spear, he will take it in his mouth, break it like a match and march against the surrounding spears, he will keep up his charge till he kills, when he dies without a groan.—Outing.

JUMP FEVER.

A Sort of Mania That Sometimes Affects Railroad Engineers.

In a party of locomotive engineers who were talking about old time railroad craftsmen reference was made to one old timer who had come to his death through "jump fever." "What is a jump fever?" inquired an outsider who was interested in the conversation. "Jump fever," explained an engineer, "is a sort of hallucination that affects some engineers and leads them to keep their hands on the throttle and speed impending collision. It's mostly fancy, of course, but it is a belief. On long runs and over a fretful engineer may be thirty six hours at the throttle without much chance for rest owing to mishaps. He gets sleepy and dozes in the cab. All of a sudden he wakes up, but his faculties are scattered, and what with lightness of the head and the motion of the cab he gets an idea that is running down hill. He looks for a semi-conscious smile he flies out of his seat and the chances are he's a goner when he lands. The engineer we referred to had done the trick twice, but he killed the third time and on the State Fe road." Philadelphia Record.

VELOCITY OF ELECTRICITY.

Spark and Mirror Method by Which It Was Determined.

To determine the velocity of electricity a "spark bound" was fitted with six insulated knobs in a straight line. The distance from 1 to 2 was the basis of an inch, between 2 and 3 was a quarter of a inch, between 3 and 4 and 5 and 6 was once more the tenth of an inch.

When the jar was discharged there were three sparks, one from 1 to 2, one from 3 to 4 and one from 5 to 6. It was found by viewing these in a rapidly revolving mirror that the distance of the spark between 3 and 4, which could only be formed after the wire coils had been traversed, lagged a little behind the other two.

This displacement of the image was then measured, and as the velocity of the mirror was known the velocity of the electrical discharge was determined as 288,000 miles a second.

A Case of Too Much Children.

In a volume of reminiscences a very funny tale is told of the late Bishop Bloomfield, who, having a family by his first wife, married a second time. This Mrs. Bloomfield was a widow with a brood of her own, and in due course a third family arrived on the scene. One day the bishop was disturbed by his wife running into his study in a great state of excitement. "What is the matter?" he testily inquired. "Oh, bishop!" was her agonized reply. "Quick, quick! There's not a moment to lose! Your children are sliding with my children and are murdering our children!"

Prominent Party at The Colonnades.

A prominent party from Brooklyn, N. Y., guests of The Colonnades are: Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin, Mrs. John Cosse, Mrs. Jas. A. Roache, Miss Mary Wahlfren, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Courtney, Hugh M. Courtney, Mrs. Ben F. Lynch, Miss Mary Meighan and Miss Alice Hanrahan.

Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin is the widow of the late Hon. Hugh McLaughlin, at one time "boss" of Tammany Hall. Last year this party was at the same hotel for several weeks.

Annual Ball at The Seaside.

The annual ball at the Seaside Inn was given Thursday night. Despite the heavy rain which occurred that night, the ball was largely attended, many going over from this side of the river.

The parlors and dining room were tastefully decorated with smilax and palms and presented a pleasing effect.

Dancing commenced at 9 and lasted until 12 o'clock, George Oldham, leader of the Seaside Inn orchestra, having charge of the musical program, which was excellently rendered.

Fruit punch was served throughout the evening and at a late hour dainty refreshments were served. Those who braved the unpleasant weather voted the event one of the most pleasant of the season.

A Birthday Party.

Thirteen little girls and boys were entertained by Sallie Holland, Wednesday evening, March 8th, from four to six, in honor of her eleventh birthday. Many pleasant games were indulged in, after which refreshments were served, each little guest eating Sallie a charming hostess.

Complaints have been heard because the street sprinkler confines its work to Beach street. The services of the sprinkler are paid for by property owners in front of whose places the sprinkler gives service and can be secured on any street.

Reservation of Racing Dates for Next Winter to F. E. C. A. A. No Injustice to Ormond.

The Morning Telegraph, of New York, owned by E. R. Thomas, contains an article of importance signed by the American Automobile Association, C. C. Gillette, secretary. The article is quoted in full and is as follows:

"In connection with the action of the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association in granting a reservation of dates to the Florida East Coast Automobile Association for a meet next year, there has been some criticism and several statements to the effect that this reservation was granted for the sole reason that the Florida East Coast Automobile Association was a member of the American Automobile Association. In justice to all concerned, it seems to me that publicity should be given to the following explanation:

The Racing Board at a recent meeting had before it two applications for sanction for a week's racing on the Ormond-Daytona beach for sanctioning dates. In rendering a decision the board considered these points, almost the least of which was the fact that the Florida East Coast Automobile Association was a member of the A. A. A.

First—The application for sanction from the F. E. C. A. A. was the first recived, and as such was entitled to first consideration.

Second—The F. E. C. A. A. was the older organization and, although some criticism had attached to the conduct of this year's meet, it nevertheless was entitled to consideration as being an association composed of individual sportsmen interested in the success of the meet in Florida, to the extent of putting up a club house, erecting suitable stands for the accommodation of officials and spectators, surveying the course and in numberless other ways showing a sportsman-like interest rather Third—The F. E. C. A. A. for nearly three years had been a loyal member and supporter of the A. A. A. and as such was entitled to consideration.

I submit the above simply as showing that there were three considerations, instead of one, that led the Racing Board to grant a reservation of date to the F. E. C. A. A. Any one of the three would warrant the board in granting a reservation, particularly as such a reservation need not necessarily mean a refusal of a reservation to the Ormond Racing Association.

Ban Johnson on Ball Rule.

President Johnson will insist that his umpires strictly enforce the ball rule this season. In answer to a request for instructions, Johnson sent the following reply to Manager Griffith yesterday: "Rule same as last year with no base runners. Pitchers can make no motion after assuming pitcher's position without pitching if there are base runners." This will enforce American League pitchers to make a decided change from their last season's preliminary motions.

Love.

It is hard to preserve equanimity and greatness on that debatable ground between love and esteem. There is nothing so stable and unflinching as love. A SCHOOL FOR SPIDERS.

The Insects Taught to Weave Their Webs Only on Bottles.

"This is my spiders' school," said the young woman, and with a little stick she brushed a few webs from the wall. "Not much to look at, is it? Only a dozen rows of wine bottles, a great many spiders and a great many webs. I make nevertheless a little money out of the school.

"Spiders' webs are in demand among surgeons and among the makers of certain astronomical instruments, the surgeons using them to stop hemorrhages with and the instrument makers using them in certain very delicate instruments—instruments wherein, strange to say, a human hair would not take their place, because a hair is neither fine enough nor durable enough to serve the required purpose.

"Besides selling the webs I also sell the spiders. A corrupt class of wine dealers buy the spiders. These men put them among bottles of new wine. I train the spiders to weave on bottles only. I tear down webs wherever they appear, and it is amazing how quickly these well-schooled pupils of mine will cover a case of port or claret with cobwebs, giving to the wine an appearance of great age.

"Six spiders in a week will add two years to the aspect of a dozen bottles of wine; hence you will readily see how valuable the ugly little creatures are to wine merchants of a certain type."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

SEWING COTTON.

The Humble Origin of the Great Thread Industry.

The origin of sewing cotton was told at a cotton manufacturers' meeting by the head of the great thread house of Paisley, Scotland. It was discovered in 1812 by his grandfather, who had a little business in Paisley, making silk twine for bobbles, which were used by every weaver. The silk came from Hamburg, and in 1803 Napoleon caused the stock held there to be burned in order to hamper British trade. The weavers were in despair, but James Clark conceived the idea that cotton yarns could be twisted together to form the twines.

The experiment succeeded, and from this grew the idea that cotton could be substituted for flax in the manufacture of sewing thread and would not be as coarse and harsh. He began the manufacture of the thread in a very small way. It was at first put up in skeins and had to be wound into little balls by the purchaser, and then Mr. Clark invented the modern spools. He had them made by a wood turner, half a gross at a time. They cost him sixpence a dozen, and he charged the purchaser of the thread a halfpenny for the spool, which, however, was refunded when the spool was returned. The ladies of Paisley used to come to his shop with their spools and wait while he wound the thread on them. From this small beginning grew a great industry.

Young Hunter's Hard Luck.

"Some years ago," said a hunter, "when I lived down on the eastern shore of Maryland, where I was born, I had passed a whole day gunning rabbits and had not killed one. On my way home through the woods I met a boy who had a live rabbit. Ashamed to go home empty handed, I gave the boy 25 cents for his rabbit.

"I then said to myself, 'I will tie Mr. Rabbit to a bush and kill him, and the folks at home will say I'd shot a rabbit.' I took a shoestring and fastened the rabbit to a bush and then stood off, took aim and fired. When the gun had stopped kicking I saw Mr. Rabbit flying through the woods. My bullet had cut the shoestring in twain and had set the little animal free."—Baltimore American.

Sword Stands in Churches.

Sword stands came into use in London churches when it became customary to carry the city sword before the lord mayor as he went to church in state. During service the sword was placed in the stand or case provided for it, and in his own church the lord mayor generally had the stand placed conveniently near to or in his family pew. This custom, which was quite common before the end of the sixteenth century, apparently began in the reign of Elizabeth. The state visits to the city churches were discontinued in the mayoralty of Sir R. N. Fowler, 1888.—London Standard.

An Excellent Lighting System.

Mr. Walsh, the north Beach street plumber, in addition to being one of the best plumbers in this vicinity and carrying a full line of baths, sinks, closets and lavatories, has added to his other line a system of lighting that is both economical and practical. It consists of a gas burner that can be attached to any lamp, or any system of lights, and is supplied by gasoline, which Mr. Walsh makes absolutely non explosive by a chemical placed in the fluid. The new light will effect a saving of fully 50 per cent in light bills over any other system in use, a twenty candle power light costing one-fourth of one cent per hour. The light need can be seen at Mr. Walsh's plumbing shop near the north canal, and many are investigating it nightly.

Something In Addition.

A German grocer, newly arrived in New Orleans, opened up a downtown establishment. He got along fairly well for awhile, but soon all his customers ceased coming.

Meeting one of them on the street one day he inquired the cause.

"Because you don't give lagniappe," was the curt reply.

"But what is dot lagniappe?" he persisted.

"Oh, simply a custom here. When our boys anything at a grocery store the clerk or proprietor usually gives lagniappe—that is, a little something in addition."

"Ach, dot is it, eh?" replied the grocer reflectively and went his way.

The next customer who came in was served by him in person.

After the package was tied and handed over the counter the grocer said suddenly:

"What is der sum of sixteen hundert and forty-seven mal eighteen hundert and nine?"

"Why, whatever do you mean?" cried the astonished purchaser.

"Why, dot's your lagniappe—a leetle something in addition, shust it!"

The grocer shop closed the following week.—New Orleans Times Democrat.

Library Book Thieves.

"No public library is safe from book thieves. In the big libraries they have spotters to watch men who ask for rare editions, but in the small libraries we must depend on the girls employed who happen to detect a thief by chance. If possible we catch the book thief before he reaches the door and ask him if he has not forgotten to have the volume checked off at the registry desk. If he is an old hand he says:

"'I have forgotten my card, but I will bring it around tomorrow.'

"He hands back the book and disappears to reappear in that particular library no more for many months. The majority of book thieves do not steal novels. They go after works of reference, almanacs, your books and such things, that most of them possibly need in their business, but cannot afford to buy. That is why such volumes are pulled down in many libraries. I have actually known a woman to get away with a city directory under her cloak."—New York Press.

Artificial Flowers.

It was in Italy that a demand for artificial flowers first arose. This was due primarily to a caprice of fashion which demanded that during festivals blossoms in and out of their seasons should be worn and also to the fact that their color and freshness were stable. Later on, in the middle ages, the artificial so far superseded the natural that both men and women decked their heads with imitation flowers of cambric, paper, glass and metal. The best artificial flowers are now made in Paris.

An Excellent Lighting System.

Mr. Walsh, the north Beach street plumber, in addition to being one of the best plumbers in this vicinity and carrying a full line of baths, sinks, closets and lavatories, has added to his other line a system of lighting that is both economical and practical. It consists of a gas burner that can be attached to any lamp, or any system of lights, and is supplied by gasoline, which Mr. Walsh makes absolutely non explosive by a chemical placed in the fluid. The new light will effect a saving of fully 50 per cent in light bills over any other system in use, a twenty candle power light costing one-fourth of one cent per hour. The light used can be seen at Mr. Walsh's plumbing shop near the north canal, and many are investigating it nightly.

Geo. E. Doggett of Harrisburg, Pa., is a guest of The Despland.

The ball given by the hotel employees of Seabreeze in Wilmans' opera house last night was well patronized. It goes without saying that the music was excellent because it was furnished by the Colonnades' orchestra. Under the management of Wm. Haywood, of The Clarendon, and Kirk Finnerty, of The Colonnades, the ball was successful and all enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Something In Addition.

A German grocer, newly arrived in New Orleans, opened up a downtown establishment. He got along fairly well for awhile, but soon all his customers ceased coming.

Meeting one of them on the street one day he inquired the cause.

"Because you don't give lagniappe," was the curt reply.

"But what is dot lagniappe?" he persisted.

"Oh, simply a custom here. When one buys anything at a grocery store the clerk or proprietor usually gives lagniappe—that is, a little something in addition."

"Och, dot is it, eh?" replied the grocer reflectively and went his way.

The next customer who came in was served by him in person.

After the package was tied and handed over the counter the grocer said suddenly:

"What is der sum of sixteen hundert unt forty-seven unt eighteen hundert unt nine?"

"Why, whatever do you mean?" cried the astonished purchaser.

"Why, dot's your lagniappe—a leetle something in addition, aindt id?"

The grocer shop closed the following week.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Library Book Thieves.

"No public library is safe from book thieves. In the big libraries they have spotters to watch men who ask for rare editions, but in the small libraries we must depend on the girls employed who happen to detect a thief by chance. If possible we catch the book thief before he reaches the door and ask him if he has not forgotten to have the volume checked off at the registry desk. If he is an old hand he says:

"'I have forgotten my card, but I will bring it around tomorrow.'

"He hands back the book and disappears to reappear in that particular library no more for many months. The majority of book thieves do not steal novels. They go after works of reference, almanacs, year books and such things, that most of them probably need in their business, but cannot afford to buy. That is why such volumes are nailed down in many libraries. I have actually known a woman to get away with a city directory under her cloak."—New York Press.

DAYTONA is situated upon the west bank of the Halifax River at its widest expanse and midway between Mosquito Inlet on the north and Ponce de Leon Inlet on the south, at Mosquito Inlet. It is in latitude 29° seventy four miles from 29. At the time said one mile from the Atlantic ocean, and is accordingly to be without a rival for beauty among the villages of the South. Its site is upon what is known as high Pine land, that was covered by nature with a most rapid growth of majestic forest trees, and among these trees is the town of today, with its beautiful cottages and well-shaded walks and streets. The people that are living the wide avenues that intersect the town are kindly live and entertaining and hospitable, many of them draped with graceful festoons of the gray Spanish moss, that overarches the street and walks, and among these are interspersed full leaved palmettos, showy leaved magnolias, fragrant bays and evergreen holly, and many other varieties, while in many places the wild grape, the trumpet vine and the multi-petaled climb and cling among the branches forming shady bowers and adding grace and beauty.

The town lies parallel with the Halifax River, and extends for nearly two miles along the shore. This river is the delight of the angler and the yachtsman and forms one of the town's greatest attractions.

The main avenues that run parallel with or intersect the river are all 100 feet wide, except Beach street, which is about sixty-five feet, but has a half mile of open, beautiful water abutting upon its eastern side, where the salt waves ebb and flow and along and across which comes the cooling, invigorating and health-giving breezes from off the wide Atlantic, which temper and render the Halifax climate one of the most perfect in the world. There are many miles of well-graded, well-marled and shelled roads and streets, rendering it the

and added to these, but a mile away, are thirty miles of smooth, hard beach, that affords an unrivalled course for all ingenious cycling and driving or automobile racing. No town of equal size, South or South, numbers so many wheelmen, and cycling is a favorite pastime with the tourists summer and winter.

The Beautiful Cottages

that have been erected during the past years and are being built are rendering Daytona as famous for its cottages as for its beautiful river, types and avenues, and they are adding yearly to its attractions.

Not the least of these attractions to those seeking homes in the South and ranking second only to health fulness and perfection of climate, is the fact that its population is chiefly composed of cultivated and intelligent people, accustomed to the refinements of home and social life. Added to these features are good churches, good public and private schools, stores, hotels, laundry, meat markets, novelty works, an opera house, electric lights for street and house illumination, a good telephone system, ice factory, City Water Works, and hot and cold baths, etc., and everything else can be procured that is necessary to make life comfortable. An important feature in the healthfulness of the town is the

which is derived from numerous flowing wells, of which there are probably 300 in the corporate limits. This flow is secured by boring wells to the depth of from 80 to 120 feet, passing through several strata of rock, and this depth assures purity from all surface contamination. The water is slightly impregnated with magnesia and iron, and holds sulphur in the shape of gas, which soon passes away.

The Population of Daytona

proper is about 1,800. Added to this is a suburban population on main shore and peninsula of about 1,000 at Kingston, Blake, Old Seabreeze or Goodell, Seabreeze and Silver Beach, which are properly a part of the town and population.

Daytona Beach

lies one mile east of the town. It is approached by three good bridges over the river, and well graded avenues, and is the principal summer resort south of St. Augustine. It has more tourists during the summer than all other places south of that city combined, and is also becoming a favorite winter resort. The beach is wide, firm and smooth, by many considered the finest in the world, and the surf bathing is safe and excellent summer and winter. People who have tried Northern and Western summer resorts declare that there are none as perfect in comfort as Daytona beach.

Automobile Race Meet.

The Florida East Coast Automobile Association conducts an annual race meet on the beach, which has now a universal reputation as the greatest automobile race course in the world. The Daytona-Ormond Beach is hard as macadam, and an ideal stretch of thirty or more miles without a break makes it the natural racing ground for America.

At low tide the beach is bared for 500 metres, while in many places the wild grape, the trumpet vine and the multi-petaled climb and cling among the bright-leaved evergreen trees and adding grace and beauty.

DAYTONA is situated upon the west bank of the Halifax River at its fairest expanse and midway between its source at Bulow Bay and its outlet at Mosquito Inlet. It is in latitude 30 seventy four miles from St. Augustine and one mile from the Atlantic Ocean, and is acknowledged to be without a rival for beauty among the villages of the South. Its site is upon what is known as high hammock land that was crowned by nature with a most royal growth of majestic forest trees, and among these trees is the town of to-day, with its beautiful cottages and well-graded walks and streets. The result is that all along the wide avenues that intersect the town are lordly live and water oaks and hickories, many of them draped with graceful festoons of the gray Spanish moss, that overarch the street and walks, and among these are interspersed tall tropical palmettos, glossy-leaved magnolias, fragrant bays and coral-berried holly, and many other varieties, while in many places the wild grape, the trumpet vine and the ampelopsis climb and cling among the branches forming shady bowers and adding grace and beauty.

The town lies parallel with the Halifax River, and extends for nearly two miles along the shore. This river is the delight of the angler and the yachtsman and forms one of the town's greatest attractions.

The main avenues that run parallel with or intersect the river are all 100 feet wide, except Beach street, which is about sixty-five feet, but has a half mile of open, beautiful water abutting upon its eastern side, where the salt waves ebb and flow and along and across which comes the cooling, invigorating and health-giving breezes from off the wide Atlantic, which temper and render the Halifax climate one of the most perfect in the world. Daytona has many miles of well-graded, marled and shelled roads and streets, rendering it the

and added to these, but a mile away, are thirty miles of smooth, hard beach, that affords an unrivalled course for long-distance cycling and driving or automobile racing. No town of equal size, North or South, numbers so many wheelmen, and cycling is a favorite pastime with the tourists summer and winter.

The Beautiful Cottages

that have been erected during the past years and are being built are rendering Daytona as famous for its fine homes as for its beautiful river, trees and avenues, and they are adding yearly to its attractions.

Not the least of these attractions to those securing homes in the South, and ranking second only to healthfulness and perfection of climate, is the fact that its population is chiefly composed of cultivated and intelligent people, accustomed to the refinements of home and social life. Added to these features are good churches, good public and private schools, stores, hotels, laundry, meat markets, novelty works, an opera house, electric lights for street and house illumination, a good telephone system, ice factory, Lily Water Works, and hot and cold baths, etc., and everything else can be procured that is necessary to make life comfortable. An important feature in the healthfulness of this town is the

which is derived from numerous flowing wells, of which there are probably 300 in the corporate limits. This flow is secured by boring wells to the depth of from 80 to 120 feet, passing through several strata of rock, and this depth assures purity from all surface contamination. The water is slightly impregnated with magnesia and iron, and holds sulphur in the shape of gas, which soon passes away.

The Population of Daytona

proper is about 1,800. Added to this is a suburban population on main shore and peninsula of about 1,000 at Kingston, Blake, Old Seabreeze or Goodall, Seabreeze and Silver Beach, which are properly a part of the town and population.

Daytona Beach

lies one mile east of the town. It is approached by three good bridges over the river, and well-graded avenues, and is the principal summer resort south of St. Augustine. It has more tourists during the summer than all other places south of that city combined, and is also becoming a favorite winter resort. The beach is wide, firm and smooth, by many considered the finest in the world, and the surf bathing is safe and excellent summer and winter. People who have tried Northern and Western summer resorts declare that there are none so perfect in comfort as Daytona beach.

Automobile Race Meet.

The Florida East Coast Automobile Association conducts an annual race meet on the beach, which has now a universal reputation as the greatest automobile race course in the world. The Daytona-Ormond Beach is hard as macadam, and an ideal stretch of thirty or more miles without a break makes it the natural racing ground for America.

At low tide the beach is bared for 300 feet and neither carriage wheel, bicycle or pedestrian can make a hardly visible imprint on the smooth and well-packed sand. It is no uncommon sight to see sail-rigged bicycles speeding with the velocity of the wind before a stiff breeze along the smooth beach, thus affording the most exhilarating sport known to man. Besides these, miles of hard-shelled, palm fringed boulevards bring the lovers of the wheel and vehicles into direct touch with the mainland over the broad bridges which span the splendid Halifax River.

The beach from the sandy bluffs to the lowest point at ebbtide, measures about 500 feet, and the average depth of the surf measures about two feet. A continuous gentle swell rolls in from the ocean from one to two feet in depth under normal conditions, making the beach an attractive and absolutely safe place for surf-bathing where the infant as well as the grey-haired veteran of many summers, can safely enjoy the luxury of a sea bath throughout the larger part of the year, while the strong and expert swimmer, can venture out further to test his strength and skill in battling with the inexhaustible powers of the mighty ocean.

The Peninsula

lying between river and ocean is one half mile wide, and is being rapidly improved, and there are many fine cottages and several good hotels, an opera house, two ocean piers, beach pavilion and a large casino.

A Remarkable Feature of Daytona has been the yearly improvement in the style and value of the buildings that are being erected for homes. Men of capital of the North and West have become awakened to its advantages for winter residences, and valuable lots are being purchased and costly houses, beautiful in design and finish, are being erected, and beautiful homes, the abodes of wealth and culture are multiplying. Seabreeze (City Beautiful) and Goodall are settlements on the Ocean side of the peninsula across the Halifax River from Daytona.

At the foot of Ocean Boulevard, Seabreeze, a pier reaches 600 feet across the beach into the swelling surf of the ocean. This pier is a favorite resort of those who delight in the sport of fishing. The surf here abounds in trout, pompano, yellowtail, cavalle, whiting, drum, sheepshead and many other varieties of edible fish. During the fall season the famous sea bass affords royal sport, and it has been no uncommon occurrence to land a thousand pounds of this gamey fish in an afternoon, individuals of them ranging from fifteen to thirty-five pounds in weight. Not only does the ocean offer this splendid sport but the Halifax River, only half a mile back of the ocean, is equally famous for its fine fishing, and the varieties that abound in the ocean are present in the river.

Hunting and fishing good. Experienced guides and dogs may be had at reasonable prices.
